

Company Description	RedSky delivers a full suite of on-premise and cloud-based software solutions and services for virtually any telephony platform to help organizations of all types capture, manage and deliver the detailed location information necessary to provide effective 9-1-1 emergency response, comply with state E911 regulations and meet business requirements for safety, risk management and efficiency.
Products/Benefits	RedSky products, including its flagship E911 Manager, manage life-saving location information by automating the process of keeping location data accurate and current – even as evolving technologies such as IP telephony and softphones make it possible for workers to become increasingly mobile. In addition, because RedSky automatically manages and delivers accurate location information, organizations significantly reduce related administrative costs.
